Physicians Legal Issues: Healthcare Delivery & Innovation Conference

September 20-24, 2021 – Choose from 15 CLE & CME Sessions!

Target Audience & Scope of Professional Practice
Physicians Legal Issues: Healthcare Delivery & Innovation Conference (PLI) is a joint continuing legal education (CLE) and continuing medical education (CME) virtual event designed for physicians and attorneys who work in healthcare and closely aligned industries. Whether you’re just starting your career or have decades of experience, this conference will provide valuable insight and strategies to improve your practice.

Program Detail

Economic, political, and regulatory forces, coupled with technological innovation, continue to challenge and change the delivery and payment of healthcare. These changes have caused physician practices and community hospitals to consolidate or diversify, forming large “super” groups or health systems that transform care delivery through clinical integration. Additionally, new government payment models, the push by private insurers to share risk, and other market conditions continue to shift physicians, hospitals, and other healthcare providers away from traditional fee-for-service reimbursement into value-based payment models. Finally, other forces affect healthcare delivery, such as the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic, telemedicine, artificial intelligence (AI), and additional real-world factors. The net result is that physicians and other healthcare providers must navigate an evolving landscape of emerging legal risks and challenges to their business models.

The theme for each day of the conference is as follows:

- Monday, September 20: Access to Healthcare
- Tuesday, September 21: Chicago Medical Society Day
- Wednesday, September 22: Physician Practice Issues
- Thursday, September 23: Physician Wellness
- Friday, September 24: Regulation and Enforcement

Sessions will cover critical topics, including new payment models, compliance issues, enforcement trends, contracting, tips for managing transactions, cybersecurity, the implications of new technologies, and workplace issues for physicians. Speakers will share practical and viable improvement techniques to help you work more efficiently while restoring your sense of purpose.
GLOBAL LEARNING OBJECTIVES

The following sessions will address legal and clinical topics of importance to physicians:

- Developments in the use of machine learning and artificial intelligence in healthcare.
- Recent payment models and initiatives in the insurance marketplace and how they affect payor alignment and marketplace strategies.
- Key policies for implementing clinical integration.
- Evaluation of physician and vendor relationships.
- Important workplace issues, including structuring physician compensation arrangements, particularly in the context of value-based arrangements, contract negotiation and compensation, and physician wellness.
- Security and privacy of patients’ data.
- Practical implications of healthcare fraud and abuse laws, including Stark Law and the Anti-Kickback Act.
- Challenges presented by advances in technology that may result in professional responsibility concerns for both physicians and attorneys.

11:00 am – 12:00 pm CT  Increasing Access to Good Health: Designing Healthcare Delivery for Underserved Communities  CLE
Biases in the diagnosis and treatment of minorities create a lack of trust in the medical profession, contributing to the disparities in healthcare of underserved communities. One method to alleviate these challenges is to encourage more minorities to enter the medical and public health professions to assure fairness and objectivity.

This panel will examine possible solutions and avenues for outreach to begin building an entryway for more African-Americans and other people of color to enter the healthcare industry.

Speakers:
The Honorable Arthur L. Burnett, Sr., Retired Judge, Superior Court, District of Columbia
National African American Drug Policy Coalition, Inc., Washington, DC

Tamara A. Henry, Ed.D, Department of Prevention and Community Health, George Washington University, Washington, DC

Bradley A. Thomas, Esq., Law Offices of Bradley Ashton Thomas Washington, DC

12:15 – 1:15 pm CT  The Promises and Challenges of the 21st Century Cures Act  CLE
Historic rules issued by the Department of Health and Human Services and the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid under the 21st Century Cures Act will help implement interoperability, end data blocking, spur innovation and give patients unprecedented access to their medical information. Unfortunately, providers and patients face challenges in successfully navigating these new regulations.
Panelists will discuss and address these concerns by examining the practical application of these rules, including newly developed application programming interfaces (API) and technologies that will change how information is shared, supporting better care coordination and health outcomes.

Speakers:

Tripti C. Kataria, MD, MPH, FASA, BCMAS, Chicago Medical Society, Chicago, IL

The No Surprises Act: What It Means for Physicians and Managed Care

The federal No Surprises Act, part of the Consolidated Appropriations Act of 2020, was the culmination of years of congressional investigations, intense legislative negotiations and lobbying efforts, and a confusing patchwork approach to surprise billing concerns. This presentation will examine what this legislation means for physicians and their relationships with managed care, provide an update on implementation efforts, and explore the impact on the future of managed care contracting and disputes.

Speakers:

Ellee Cochran, JD, Husch Blackwell, Austin, TX

Amanda Hayes-Kibreab, King & Spalding, Los Angeles, CA

Stephen L. Ondra, MD, North Star Healthcare Consulting, Williston, FL

2:00 – 3:00 pm CT

Maximizing Revenue and Maintaining Compliance in a Value-Based Care World

Understanding and evaluating the numerous revenue strategies and areas of compliance in value-based care is complex. Independent practices have to navigate the use of value-based care CPT codes and a shift toward risk and value-based contracts. Also, negotiating innovative compensation models, including ACO and bundled payments, co-management arrangements, hospital efficiency incentive programs, and quality bonuses, are additional complications for employed and health system-affiliated physicians. Lastly, analysis of these strategies must include an essential grasp of regulatory guidance related to value-based care, including the new Stark Final rules.
This presentation will provide health practitioners an overview of strategies and practical advice for compliance.

Speakers:
- Jen Johnson, CFA, VMG Health, Dallas, TX
- James M. Daniel, Jr., JD, Hancock Daniel, Richmond, VA

3:15 – 4:15 pm CT

The Role of Artificial Intelligence in Remote Monitoring

Explore how remote monitoring via artificial intelligence (AI) was used during and after the COVID-19 pandemic to identify and track the disease. The panel will also evaluate the continuing legal and ethical considerations of AI and its use with patients.

Speakers:
- Gary Conkright, PhysIQ, Chicago, IL
- Sidney Welch, JD, Akerman LLP, Atlanta, GA

4:30 – 5:30 pm CT

Feast and Famine: The Economics of Healthcare in a Pandemic

Health care providers have sustained catastrophic financial challenges during the pandemic despite the massive influx of COVID-19 patients to hospital emergency departments.

This panel will analyze the economic impact of the pandemic on health care providers, including lost revenue from the cessation and decrease of elective procedures and other non-emergency health services, and legal and practical considerations for resuming these services. Finally, the types of assistance government, hospitals, and health systems can provide practitioners in their networks will be explored.

Speakers:
- John Cherf, MD, MPH, MBA, Advocate Illinois Masonic Medical Center, Chicago, IL
- Adrienne Dresvic, JD, The Health Law Partners, Farmington Hills, MI

Theme: Physician Practice Issues

1:00 – 2:00 pm CT

Top 10 Points of Successful Physician Health System Affiliations

What are the ten essential elements of a successful affiliation transaction in a post-COVID world? Panelists will present a side-by-side comparison, review each factor, address prominent affiliation models and transactional issues, consider value-based reimbursement for affiliation initiatives, and examine the outcomes and results of a hospital-physician transaction in 2021. The presentation will end with a Top 10 List and practical suggestions for application.

Speakers:

- Thomas D. Anthony, Esq., Frost Brown Todd LLC, Cincinatti, OH
- S. “Ram” Ramalingam, MD, MBA, Baylor Scott & White Health, Cincinatti, OH
- Max Reiboldt, CPA, Coker Group, Alpharetta, GA

2:15 – 3:15 pm CT

Telemmedicine: What Physicians Need to Know After the Pandemic Ends?

Expansion of telemedicine is well liked by patients and physicians as a means to offer better care, improve health outcomes and avoid infections. But, the economics of telemedicine have historically been more challenging. This panel will examine how expanded telemedicine might work financially for physicians and stakeholders after the pandemic ends. Among the topics covered will be the following:

- Quantifying the benefits of telehealth
- Higher Utilization - is more better, and what is it worth?
- Which Metrics? – cases, encounters, time spent
- Viable financial models for telemedicine reimbursement

Speakers:

- Albert "Chip" Hutzler, JD, MBA, CVA, HORNE, Nashville, TN
- Christian K. Puff, JD, CoreLife, Dallas, TX

3:30 – 4:30 pm CT

Legal Ethics: What’s the Worst That Could Happen?

Advising healthcare clients is not simply a matter of "looking up the law." Instead, it requires an understanding of nuances, official and unofficial regulatory guidance, and often conflicting precedent. Navigating these murky waters can present ethical issues for practitioners.

This session will provide practical guidance on addressing such issues in context, including percentage management fees, EKRA, nearly-but-not-quite safe harbors, and advising when the law violates other laws.

Speaker:

William W. Horton, JD, Jones Walker LLP, Birmingham, AL

4:45 – 5:45 pm CT

Physician Wellness: Taking Stock of Our National Healthcare Crisis

Too many of our nation’s physicians are in crisis. Even before the COVID-19 pandemic, changes in the practice of medicine, and barriers in access to care, caused physicians to sustain stresses and burnout placing their mental and physical health at risk. The pandemic imposed additional unprecedented pressures that negatively impacted physicians’ wellbeing and ability to provide patient care in ways previously unimagined.

This session will present real-life stories about what is happening to physicians and the many factors that place their mental and physical welfare under siege.

Speakers:

Corey Feist, JD, MBA
Ruchi M. Fitzgerald, MD, FAAFP, Rush University, Chicago, IL

5:45 – 7:25 pm CT

Super Session

5:45 – 6:30 pm CT

Session 1: Institutional Barriers & Solutions to Achieving Physician Wellness

Many physicians want solutions to alleviate the negative effect of burnout and prolonged stresses on their mental or physical health. These outcomes can range from counseling for mild depression or intensive assistance to address alcohol or chemical dependence. Unfortunately, institutional practices and barriers often discourage physicians from seeking help. Fortunately, some institutions have implemented programs to help lower these barriers.
This session will discuss examples of institutional practices, which are opening the way for physician wellness, and will provide action items institutions can immediately implement to support physicians.

Speakers:
- Betty S. Chu, MD, MBA, Henry Ford Health System, West Bloomfield, MI
- Marcus Hughes, JD, UMass Memorial Health Care, Worcester, MA

6:40 – 7:25 pm CT
Session 2: State and Federal Legislation Promoting Physician Wellness

Although barriers to wellness exist, legislative progress has occurred. Several states have recently enacted laws specifically designed to encourage physicians to seek help by alleviating their concerns about negative repercussions. In the U.S. Senate, sponsors also introduced legislation with bipartisan support.

This session will discuss innovative laws that promote physician physical and mental wellness and identify what attendees can do to help support physicians locally and nationally.

Speakers:
- Corey Feist, JD, MBA
- Daniel Blaney-Koen, JD, MFA, American Medical Association, Chicago, IL

12:15 – 1:15 pm CT
Who’s Practicing Medicine? Equity Deals and Recognizing and Addressing the Dangers of Management Service Organizations

An increase in management service organizations (MSOs) occurred as part of equity deals where unlicensed investors sought to invest in and manage physician practices. In some aspects, these transactions are reminiscent of the physician 'rollups' of the late '90s and early 2000s that didn't fully anticipate underlying problems.

Governmental efforts and private whistleblowers seek enforcement actions against promoters and physician-investors that may place licenses in jeopardy. Additionally, federal and state securities laws may impact these transactions, so physicians and those who advise them should be aware of these issues in the state they reside. Finally, our presenters will also focus on defending MSOs and the ethical requirements of attorneys who structure them.

Speakers:
Michael Clark, JD, Baker Donelson, Houston, TX
Bruce Howell, JD, Howell Health Law, Portland, OR Jon Spiers, MD, JD, Xceed Biopharma, Houston, TX
